

GROWTH AND SUPPORT

This autumn marks the completion of a two-year renovation plan of an important segment of the Museum.

Our former president Harold Boeschenstein, and our director Otto Wittmann, jointly planned several years ago a renovation program for the Museum's ground floor, based on their belief that the Museum's new Grove Place parking lot would change the Museum visitor's pattern.

Foremost in their thinking was need for a new modern entrance on Grove Place to give easy and safe access from the parking lot. Included in their first phase completed last year were not only the handsome new entrance, but a new restaurant, new corridor-galleries for prints, a new print study room (given in memory of Grace J. Hitchcock by her son, William J. Hitchcock), and a new entrance to the Peristyle protected from the weather and enlivened with works of art available to be enjoyed at concert intermissions.

Over the past summer completion of the second phase brought us additional corridor-galleries to link the restaurant with the main galleries, and completion of a new Little Theatre (seating about 180) adjacent to the restaurant.

This program, now completed, makes available for the first time a useful, modern, performing-arts center connected conveniently with an attractive restaurant serving lunches daily as well as special concert-evening dinners. This new center is conveniently entered through the new Grove Place entrance from the safe and well-lighted parking lot.

However, the Museum building which was first opened in 1912, was completed in 1933. Any building of this age needs constant care. More renovation is needed to provide space for new services and adequate housing for the Museum's invaluable art collections. With annual support from Toledoans, we can continue to provide art and music events of great quality, and to preserve Toledo's greatest asset: its Museum and the great masterpieces of art it contains.

70 YEARS OF EDUCATION

Children learn by doing.

A recent New York Times headline asked, "Do Kids and Museums Mix?" Well, they seem to in Toledo—and have for 70 years.

On Saturday, September 8, more than 2000 children, and their parents, filed into the Museum to register for free art and music classes. Many had been pre-registered through recommendation from their teachers throughout the public and parochial schools at the Museum's invitation. But many others simply came on Registration Saturday. Few could not be accommodated. Almost none knew that their presence marked the 70th such registration since free art classes began at Toledo's Museum in 1903—only two years after its founding.

Certainly the Museum's free Saturday classes are the oldest and still the largest in the country—and almost the only such classes that are free. But this is only one segment of the Museum's vast educational programs for children and adults in the fields of art and music. Thousands of children will visit the Museum with their school classes for guided weekday tours carefully coordinated with their schoolroom studies and conducted by both volunteer and professional Museum personnel. Thousands of adults will learn the joy that creating works of art can bring through Museum classes for those interested in an avocation as well as to Toledo University students seeking degree credits.

How long can all this continue? How long can admission to the Museum remain free while entrance fees up to $2 are charged by such great metropolitan museums as the Museum of Modern Art, New York, the museums of Boston, Philadelphia and New York to name a few? Only so long as those in our community who believe in the importance of cultural enrichment will continue to support with annual gifts the Museum's growing need for operating funds.

Current annual giving is imperative. Endowments established in the past do not provide sufficient income. A financial statement is appended to this report. It is to be noted that income from the generous endowments of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drummond Libbey provided approximately 28% of the operating income last year. Many Toledoans believe that these funds are still sufficient. They no longer are.

The Museum today continues to serve only because of your interest and your annual support. Museum members, President's Council members, major corporate and individual donors all give so that their fellow Toledoans can continue to benefit from the Museum.

Many others give of their time: these are the important volunteer groups including the Docents, the Aides, the Friends, the Endowment Development Committee and many others.

Together all these people whose names appear on the following pages make possible the Museum's programs. It is a real community effort to serve a real community need. Toledo's Museum is, and has been for many years, the greatest "grass roots" museum in the world.

The Museum has enjoyed a successful year and looks to the year ahead with confidence and optimism. There are interesting temporary exhibits planned for the future, some important new accessions of works of art to be announced, continuing and growing opportunities for Toledoans to use their Museum. Inflation and rising costs cast the only real shadow on possible future growth.

As a non-profit institution the Museum has little way to protect itself against rising costs except through your increased contributions.

To end this report on an optimistic note, we quote from an unbiased national report made by an accreditation team from the American Association of Museums charged with evaluating all American museums. About Toledo, the report stated in part:

"The (Toledo) Museum visually is a joy to enter . . . everything which greets the visitor says "Welcome!". Such an accomplishment is no easy achievement . . . it is a combination of good direction and leadership of a staff dedicated to interpreting the works of art as effectively as possible at every level of visitor-understanding.

"The growth of the collection has been steady with some additions that have raised the level spectacularly. The collections . . . are rich, broad, well-chosen, in excellent condition and superbly installed and displayed. Thoroughgoing professionalism of the highest order characterizes the Museum's exhibition program . . .

"Finally, the fact that the trustees and staff have acknowledged the major role of public education and service and is making it work, is to put the Toledo Museum in the forefront of American musuems."

This is indeed encouraging comment from an unbiased, national professional association.

Major donors make possible museum growth. Among the many generous gifts made in 1972 which will enable the museum more effectively to serve the community were the Grace J. Hitchcock Print Study Room and the William E. Levis Exhibition Gallery. William J. Hitchcock (I.) donor of the print room in memory of his mother, and Abe Plough (r.) donor of the exhibition gallery in memory of his friend, Mr. Levis, are shown with Mrs. William E. Levis at the museum's annual dinner for the President's Council.

VOLUNTEERS: A VALUED ASSET

One of the greatest assets The Toledo Museum of Art has is a dedicated corps of volunteers. Over 25,000 children are given lectures throughout the school year related to their classroom studies by Art Museum Docents specially trained in art and music. Museum membership has grown to more than 7,000 through the devoted efforts of the Art Museum Aides. The Friends of the Museum are workers who, because of their success during the membership campaign, are invited to serve as hostesses at major museum events. Today we have more than 200 members of President's Council who are pledged to contribute annually to the Museum's Endowment Fund due to the efforts of the Endowment Development Committee. The Performing Arts Committee is the newest of the volunteer groups. Their purpose is to advise on and strengthen Museum programs in the Performing Arts.

The Toledo Museum of Art is grateful to these volunteers. Contributions to the Endowment Fund and Museum Membership are essential. However, the time and effort given to the Museum by these volunteers is equally as important. Both volunteer service and contributed funds are necessary to provide for increasing Museum services to the community.

Museum Aides direct the annual membership drive.

ENDOWMENT DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

The Endowment Development Committee, whose main purpose is to increase major contributions to the Museum, is composed of Museum trustees and other community leaders. This committee was successful in obtaining more than 35 new contributors to the Endowment Fund in 1972.

WHAT MEMBERSHIP MEANS

Membership means that the Museum's free educational program for children now in its 70th year, can expand to benefit more of the community. Museum educational programs in art and music give children the opportunity to learn and to enrich their lives. The Museum's internationally known educational programs have been the stepping stone to many an active artist today.

Museum membership means benefits. Members receive invitations to Members Lecture Series, Opening Night Previews of major exhibitions, the privilege of renting quality art from Collectors Corner, and subscriptions to Museum News and the Newsletter. Members also receive discounts on Performing Arts Series tickets, tuition for adult art and music classes, and gifts at the Information Center. Members of President's Council and Supporting Members enjoy reciprocal privileges at eight other major museums in the United States.

All Museum Memberships are family memberships. Active membership begins at $15. However, many members, knowing of the needs and programs of the Museum, contribute more annually. Higher categories of Membership are:

Contributing Member	$	25
Sustaining Member	$	50
Supporting Member	$1	00
President's Council Member	$5	500

Members of The Toledo Museum of Art as of July 31, 1973 are listed on the following pages. Without their contributions, the Museum could not continue its community services.

Young visitors inspect self-portraits created in the free Saturday classes supported by membership contributions.

"It was indeed a pleasure to enclose our contribution. The Toledo Museum of Art is one of our community's most valuable assets. This is not only because of its great history and tradition, but more so because of your continuing changes and improvements to increase the service of the Museum to our community."

"An Art Museum is a place where people can learn about the way people lived a long time ago and today. Some of the pictures tell us how they did live. Few of the museums have art classes and music classes so we are very lucky to have one. A lot of kids didn't even have a chance but we did and this is real fun."

"I attended your children's Saturday morning classes for five years as a child. Those were the fondest hours of my childhood. As a child I was a loner and after the Saturday morning class I would spend the rest of the afternoon in the Museum with the pieces of artwork. The sculpture by Renoir and the paintings by Matisse, Poussin, and Degas were my real friends. For this I would like to thank you, many years later, for that great experience."
